Agreed. The subject came up in our board meeting again about informing the cruise passengers about the availability of the trolley on cruise days. I am willing to run a free trolley for passengers if I can get the information to them before they arrive.

How would be the best way to do that?

Hi,

We also need to include Susan Wong in the conversation. I met her last week and dropped off materials to her. I believe she works for Luis and she is on the front lines of passenger service and information.

Luis,

I would like to continue the conversation regarding how to best communicate with the cruise ship passengers ahead of their arrival, how we can create collateral material for them (i.e. visitor maps) and offer them free trolley service.

When would be a good time to meet?
